

Problem Statement

The objective of this project is to analyze gender pay gap data across organizations to identify patterns of wage inequality between male and female employees. The study focuses on examining hourly pay differences, bonus distributions, and employee representation across salary quartiles.

By applying exploratory data analysis techniques, the project aims to understand gender-based disparities in compensation. The results will help highlight the extent of inequality and support fair compensation practices.